

returned before any court or judge which or who would originally have had power or jurisdiction to issue such writ under the provisions of sections 1 and 3 if application in the particular case had been originally made to such court or judge.

An. Code, sec. 14. 1904, sec. 14. 1888, sec. 14. 1886, ch. 255.

13. No person who shall have been delivered upon a habeas corpus shall afterwards be imprisoned or committed for the same offense otherwise than by the order or process of the court wherein he or she shall be bound by recognizance to appear or some other court having jurisdiction of the cause or upon surrender by his or her bail.

An. Code, sec. 15. 1904, sec. 15. 1888, sec. 15. 1809, ch. 125, sec. 6.

14. If any judge, whether in court or out of court, shall refuse any writ of habeas corpus by this article required to be granted, he shall be liable to the action of the party grieved.

An. Code, sec. 16. 1904, sec. 16. 1888, sec. 16. 1809, ch. 125, sec. 5.

15. No citizen of this State committed to the custody of an officer for any criminal matter shall be removed from thence into the custody of another officer, unless it be by habeas corpus or by other legal writ, except where the prisoner shall be delivered to a constable or other inferior officer, to be carried to some common jail, or shall be removed from one place to another within the said county or an adjoining county, in order to his discharge or trial in due course of law; or in case of sudden fire or infection, or other necessity; or where the prisoner shall be charged by affidavit or other lawful evidence with treason, felony or other crime alleged to be done in any other of the United States of America or territories thereof—in which last case he shall, on the demand of the executive authority of the State, district or territory from which he fled, be immediately delivered up.

This section is intended to prevent the danger of protracting the imprisonment, and affirms the principle that the prisoner ought to be committed to the proper prison in the first instance. Cocking v. Wade, 87 Md. 539.

This section does away with the necessity for a writ for the removal of a prisoner from one county to an adjoining county. Blake v. Burke, 42 Md. 49.

An. Code, sec. 17. 1904, sec. 17. 1888, sec. 17. 1880, ch. 6, sec. 17.

16. Whenever any court in this State having jurisdiction in the premises, other than the court of appeals, or when any judge of any court in this State having jurisdiction in the premises shall release or discharge any person brought before such court or judge, under the writ of habeas corpus, charged with the violation of the provisions of any act of assembly of this State, or section thereof or of any article or section of the code of public general laws or public local laws of this State, upon the ground, or for the reason, that such act of assembly, or section thereof, or such article or section of the code of public general laws or public local laws is unconstitutional and void, in whole or in part, because contrary to the constitution or bill of rights of this State, or because contrary to the con-
